DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 12 & 16 are objected to because of the following informalities:

In claim 12, line 1, "19" should be ---deleted---.

In claim 16, line 2, "19" should be ---deleted---.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mann (U.S. Patent 4931017) in view of Sahler et al. (U.S. Patent 4610096).

Mann discloses a template book (10) for assisting a user in drawing images and shapes on a surface, said book comprising front (12) and back (14) cover panels formed of rigid cardboard (col. 2 lines 23-26); and a plurality of template pages (16, 18, 20, etc.) hingedly bound (26) to said cover panels (Figure 1).

Mann do not disclose wherein each of said template pages is formed of a plurality of hingedly attached template sheets operative to be folded out from said cover panels to form a drawing template, said template having an area defined by said unfolded template sheets.

Sahler et al. discloses multiple transformable stencil toys (11) in Figures 3, 5 & 7, hereafter focusing upon the embodiment shown in Figures 3 & 4, said toy having hingedly attached (35a,b) sheets (17a,b) operative to be folded out (Figures 3 & 4) in order to form a drawing template, said template having an area defined by said unfolded template sheets

(Figure 1). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to add the stencil toys disclosed by Sahler et al. to the binding disclosed by Mann in order to keep a variety of interesting stencils organized in one place.

4. Claims 7-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mann & Sahler et al. as applied to claims 1-6 above, and further in view of Slayton (U.S. Patent 5100324).

Mann & Sahler et al. disclose all of the instant claimed invention as stated above in the rejection of claims 1-6, but do not disclose a storage bin with a top cover including a pocket for disposing a portion of said book; said storage bin including a carrying handle for carrying; said storage bin storing said book and a plurality of markers therein.

Slayton discloses a pre-school stencil kit with a storage bin (22) with a top cover (14) including a pocket, broadly defined as the area between the flanges (64) & (66) (Figure 8), for disposing a portion of a stencil (16) (Figure 7); said storage bin including a carrying handle (52) for carrying said bin, a plurality of stencils (16, 18) (Figure 4), & a plurality of markers (col. 3 line 9). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to add the storage bin with its pocket, its carrying handle, and its plurality of markers as taught by Slayton to the book disclosed Mann & Sahler et al. in order that the book is protected within; the book is kept near a supply of markers; the book has a readily available workspace (i.e. the pocket); & the book is easily transportable within.
